The thesis aims to define the hypothetical power of attraction, in a parallel narrative, of the "Digital Revolution House", technological hub that the Politecnico di Torino is going to build as an expansion the Energy Center. The hub changes its name in BIO REVOLUTION HOUSE to become a laboratory, a space for experimentation and meeting between the Politecnico and companies operating in the field of biosciences, a sector that has become central to the local economies of the whole world . Specifically, the hypothesis is to design a hub for biotechnology and biomedical engineering companies that produce human enhancement technologies.
